Assignment - 5

Aim:

To evaluate ~~MakeMyTrip~~ travel app using usability heuristics and identify interface problems and possible improvements.

Theory:

Heuristic evaluation is a usability testing method used to identify interface problems based on established usability principles. The website prototype is evaluated on control, simplicity, accuracy, consistency, navigation, responsiveness and user support. Each parameter is assigned a severity score from 0 to 5 and improvements are suggested to enhance the flight booking experience.

Conclusion:

The heuristic evaluation helps identify usability issues and suggest improvements in features like flight comparison, booking convinience and information clarity resulting in a smoother and more user friendly experience.
